Tall Grass Prairie Bread Company and Grass Roots Prairie Kitchen acknowledge that we are located on the ancestral lands of the Anishinaabeg, Dakota, and Ininiwak. We would also like to acknowledge the other First Nations such as the Anish-Ininiwak, Dene, and Nehethowuk who gathered at this ancient site sharing these lands and waterways. We also acknowledge that we are on the homeland of the Métis and are also grateful to the First Nations of Treaty One who agreed to share this beautiful prairie land giving us the opportunity to cook and bake for you.

Tall Grass Prairie Bread Company is all about organic grains, fresh milling, traditional baking and local food made from scratch. We extend this commitment to our catering as well. Whole Grains. Whole Food. Wholesome.

Breakfasts and snacks: The main focus Tall Grass catering is baked goods for morning meetings as well as snack breaks. We also have lovely platters of fruit, cheese or veggies.

For small breakfast and snack events we require 24 hour notice, and appreciate 48 hours. In a pinch, call us and see if we can make it work. We cater meetings from 30 to 3,000 people with our cinnamon buns, muffins, scones, squares, cookies, and platters.

Tall Grass puts together delightful arrangements for business, government, and educational meetings. Conferences and other larger events can also be accommodated.

We generally do NOT cater coffee, lunches, or suppers, except for larger events, by special arrangement. We require at least two weeks notice for events of 50 people and more.

Catering, the Tall Grass way...

- We bake because it is our passion and we love sharing what we make.
- Supporting local organic agricultural practices reflects our respect for our Mother the Earth.

- The baked products in your order are made with fresh milled organic flour, because we believe in the goodness of the whole kernel.
- We buy locally because we believe in supporting Manitoba farmers and suppliers. Together, we can look after the land and enjoy the bounty of what grows here.
